Stripped of the glamor with which mer, Jarbidge is no doubt presented in as true a light as has ever enveloped it, in a private letter just received from Engineer Winthrop W. "The wireless telegraph company is at work at this end. It has estab-lished its station on top of the hill west of town and has erected a wire from that station into town. Stations at Twin Falls and Hollister are working and in a few days the company will be ready for business here.

Town Continues to Grow.

"The town continues to grow. The tents about the canyon now number almost 500. Lumber is beginning to arrive. A few tents have floors and a few have doors and winows and board fronts. Soon lumber will begin to replace the canvas, and aiready the sun in the middle of the day proclaims

"The population of the town has not greatly increased, but there is a marked change in the character of the population. Men who came here expecting to get work have gone, while business men, mine operators and even a few investors have taken their places. While the payroll of the camp is yet small and is likely to remain small for some time, considerable prospecting is going on now and the results are encouraging for the future of the cau.

some time, considerable prospecting is going on now and the results are encouraging for the future of the can.p. "There is nowhere near the amount of 'knocking' that there was. It seems to be an accepted fact that it is to be an illing camp rather than a shipper and that time will be required to propand the continuous and the Patrick of the canter of the can.p. It is believed that a smuch as 500 tons of ore daily may come to the smelter from the Yerington district alone.

It is estimated by the company's encuring at the capital stock of Nevada Consolity, state capital stock o money to leave camp.

Claims Staked in Snow.

"As the ground was staked from the Snake river lava plateau all the way Snake river lava plateau all the way to the top of the mountain range, where the snow must have been 20 feet and 30 feet deep, it is obvious that thousands of the claims are worthless. On the other hand a considerable number of the 'snow claims' which happened to be staked on the mineral belt are proving up well and may make mines.

"When great dikes 20 and 50 feet, or even 100 feet wide, yield small pan-nings of gold from samples taken promiscuously from all parts of the out-erop, it becomes simply a question of development work to determine the av-erage value of the great body and whether it is to prove a paying mine. With such large bodies of ore, even small average values will make big mines, especially with the favorable conditions found here for mining and temporary adverse conditions which have prevailed here the last winter, which have tended to retard development of the mines, can be fully appreciated by mining men, whereas the general public is at a loss to know why the camp is so slow. To be know why the camp is so slow. To be sure, the camp was overboomed as a rich high-grade camp, which it has not yet proved to be, and which I do not expect it to be; but the bunches of high-grade will act as sweeteners for the whole and greatly advance the mill the whole and greatly advance the mill

Believes Values Go Deep. There seems to be fear with many that the great surface showings can be nothing but surface deposits, but let us look at the formation for answer. The whole formation is volcanic; the evidences are that each of the various strata came up from below; there is every indication that the mineralization of the dikes was effected prior to the formation of the dikes; there is no indication of surface enrichment or infiltration of values, hence if the mineral values came up with the formation of the dikes it is natural to suppose that the values may be expected to avthat the values may be expected to ex-tend downward, and the only questions to be determined are the extent of the dikes at depth and the general average values of the whole mass, to demon-strate how great is to be the future

"In this connection I will add that with a well defined contact vein, the size and continuity of such a vein at depth may be relied upon; therefore, 1 think that in our property, located as it is upon a contact vein with a sur-face showing more than 20 feet wide, we may with considerable confidence look forward to opening a great mine even if the average values should be

MASON VALLEY IS GIVEN GOOD LINE

New Era for Yerington Mines.

Mason Valley's $1,000,000 of converti-is in the camp in the interest of the Dorsey syndicate, of this city. Mr. Fisk endeavors to present conditions as they really are, for the benefit of his associates; it is known that his judgment is good and it is believed that his statements are uncolored. His letter is so interesting that it is reproduced in full. He says:

"The vagon road from Buhl and Twin Falls is open and it is getting better every day. Light teams have been coming over it into camp for more than a week, and now six-horse teams are pulling in. Mr. Bourne and wife are pulling in. Mr. Bourne and wife are pulling in. Mr. Bourne and wife are pulling in the interest of the shares advances to $20 within a year or two, as it is quite to a $500 bond will thus be given a market value of $1,000, and the holder will receive interest meanwhile at the rate of 6 per cent on his investment, says the Boston Commercial.

In view of the fact that the recent readjustment of capital, which reduces its outstanding stock from 770,000 shares, par $1, to 154,000 shares, par $5—stockholders exchanging five shares of the former for one of the latter—and the issue of $1,000,000 bonds to finance the erection of a smelter, is to take Mason Valley out of the list of mining prospects and make it a producing, profit-earning company, there can hardly fail to be a substantial advance in the prices of its stock and bonds.

The company's new smelter will be The company's new smelter will be built on a site purchased a year or more ago. It is about two miles north of Wabuska, fourteen miles from the mine. The railroad from Wabuska to the mine, built by another company, is completed. The smelter will at first have a capacity to treat 500 to 800 tons of ore daily, and will do a custom business. As it will be the only custom smelter between Salt Lake and the Pacific coast, in the wide area served by the Southern Pacific railroad, it is practically sure to build up a business says the Ausin Reveille. Contracts were signed on April 2 for shipment to Austin within sixty days of all the machinery and material re-quired for the initial unit of an ore reduction plant. The makers of this machinery proves verbally to have this consignment on the cars within thirty, days, but have been allowed a what uncertain progress of the repairs on the Nevada Central railroad. However, it is anticipated that by the time this plant reaches Battle Mountain, it can come on to Austin by rail.

Convertible bond issues, during the past two or three years, by mining companies owning properties of demonstrated value, have been highly productive speculative investments. It will be recalled that immediately following the flotations of convertible bonds by the Miami, Ray Consolidated, Utah Copper, Nevada Consolidated and Arizona Commercial companies their stocks scored sharp advances, causing the bonds to command big premiums. The mine is described by Kynnersley as lying in a country which rivals the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in gran-deur. It is situated in the state of Durango, about fifty miles southwest of Santiago Papasquairo. The approach to the mine is along a narrow ledge on the sheer face of a precipice, so dan-gerous that the men were tied to the

The news of the discovery has created a sensation in Mexico, where the history of the mine has evoked the credulity of miners for more than 100 years. The mine, according to Kynnersley, has five tunnels. Two of the unnels are closed with heavy iron grating of ancient pattern. Three miles from the pocket are the Basis mines, owned by Sir Tatton Sykes of London. The records of the mine show that it paid $7,000,000 in royalties to the Spanish government. Work on the mine suddenly ceased, and it was believed that Indians had massacred the miners. Since then no trace of it has been found up to the present time.

Immediately after the peninsular war of 1812, the king of Spain, in need of thirty, days, but have been allowed a good margin by the Austin Manhattan company on account of the still somepedition was fruitless.
